ABSTRACT

This directory of allied health programs in senior colleges and universities in the U.S. has been compiled as a first effort in developing a regular, comprehensive reporting system of education activities in the allied health field. The directory is designed to fulfill four major purposes: (1) to assist policy makers in planning for health care; (2) to aid analysts in projecting trained professional manpower supply in the allied health field; (3) to help administrators plan educational programs to meet professional and other occupational manpower requirements; and (4) to provide reference information to educators and counselors about programs available in the allied health field. The data are presented by institutional location and by program title. (Author/HS)

INTRODUCTION

The Association of Schools of Allied Health Professions (ASAHP) has compiled this Directory of allied health programs in senior colleges and universities in the United States as a first effort in developing a regular, comprehensive reporting system of education activities in the allied health field. The work was performed by ASAHP under the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare Contract No. NIH 71-4027 with the Division of Allied Health Manpower of the Bureau of Health Manpower Education, a component of the National Institutes of Health.

The Directory is designed to fulfill four major purposes:

1. To assist policy makers in planning for health care.
2. To aid analysts in projecting trained professional manpower supply in the allied health field.
3. To help administrators plan educational programs to meet professional and other occupational manpower requirements.
4. To provide reference information to educators and counselors about programs available in the allied health field.

A companion directory has been published of allied health programs in two-year colleges.* It was compiled by the American Association of Junior Colleges under contract with the Division of Allied Health Manpower.

Information about educational programs for some health occupations, including medicine, osteopathy, dentistry, optometry pharmacy podiatry, and registered and practical nursing, has been published previously by other sources. They are not, therefore, included in this Directory.

Methodology

Data for the development of the Directory was collected between February and September, 1971. The existence of allied health programs located in senior colleges was determined by contacts with presidents or chancellors of the 1,808 colleges listed in the 1970-71 higher education directory prepared by the U.S. Office of Education,[1] and with State authorities who have knowledge about educational opportunities in the respective geographic areas. The president or chancellor of each college was sent a brief questionnaire on which to identify allied health programs offered at the institution and the name and address o responsible for the administration of each program. Ninety (95%), or 1,716, institutions responded. Eight hundred eight (888) of the respondents reported one or more a programs, for a total of 3,440 programs. The list compile institutional responses was submitted for review to one or

Criteria for Programs Included

Definitions

The following definitions were provided to respondents for use in reporting programs.

Allied Health The term ALLIED HEALTH, when broadly used, includes those personnel who support the work of physicians, dentists, and registered nurses in the areas of patient care, public health, health research, and environmental health. Such workers function at professional, technical, or supportive levels to complement and supplement the activities of the principal health professionals.

Program An allied health educational program is a planned series of courses at one particular academic level which includes formal classroom instruction, laboratory instruction, and/or clinical training leading to competency in a specific allied health profession or occupation. Two series of courses which differ significantly in required content, duration, occupational objectives, or educational prerequisites are considered to be two separate programs. A program may be either of the following:

Degree Program Leads to an associate, baccalaureate, master's, or doctoral degree (e.g., medical technology, physical therapy, occupational therapy, medical record science).

Non-Degree Program Does not lead to an undergraduate or graduate degree and may or may not lead to a certificate or diploma.

Reporting period

Respondents were asked to report only programs in which students were enrolled during the 1970-71 academic year.

Minimum program requirements

- Degree, certificate, or diploma awarded by the college or university.
- At least three months duration.

Programs not included

1. Educational programs for the following categories of health and health related occupations:
    - Physicians (M.D., D.O.).
    - Dentists, optometrists, pharmacists, and veterinarians.
    - Engineers. Exception: programs judged to have significant environmental health or biomedical content.
    - Natural scientists, i.e. microbiologists.
    - Social scientists, including psychologists.
    - Social workers. Exception: programs judged to have an unusually significant medical or psychiatric content.
    - Nurses (R.N., L.P.N., L.V.N.).
    - Mathematicians and statisticians. Exception: programs judged to have significant health statistics content.
2. Educational programs located in Schools of Public Health.
3. Hospital-based programs, unless the hospital is within a university medical center.
4. Internships or other practicums not required for successful completion of the academic program, such as dietetic internships.
5. Programs in which students are not (a) required to complete all training considered necessary preparation for the occupation before they are awarded a degree, certificate or diploma by the academic institution or (b) prepared for transfer to another academic program which does not require completion of such training before a degree, certificate or diploma is awarded.

Description of Tabular Data

FICE Code

The FICE Code is a six-digit number assigned to each institution of higher education. It was used for institution identification in computer preparation of the Directory.

Institution Name

The full name of the institution is used where space permits. Otherwise the name is abbreviated according to the shortened forms used in the Education Directory—Higher Education, 1970-71, published by the U.S. Office of Education.

Type of Program

Programs are identified as either "B" (Basic Occupational Preparation) or "A" (Advanced Education or Training).

1. Basic Occupational Preparation. These programs are designed to prepare students to work in a specific profession or occupation at the "journeyman" or entry-level of that occupation. Admission to the programs does not require any previous training or credentials in the occupation or discipline. Typically, these programs grant the "first professional degree" or lead to licensure or certification.

2. Advanced Education or Training. These programs are designed to provide health workers with formal, s beyond that which is offered as "Basic to confer additional academic or profe discipline or occupation.

Occupational Titles

Program titles and the classification of program titles were determined by Directory staff in consultation with the Division of Allied Health Manpower. Programs offering basic occupational preparation are differentiated from those offering advanced training (denoted as "Adv." after the program title). A total of 107 program titles are grouped into 12 major categories.

Transfer Programs

Some titles appear in the Directory with and without asterisks. They are:

Medical Technologist
Radiologic Technologist
Radiologic Technician
Occupational Therapist
Physical Therapist

Listed without an asterisk, the programs offer both didactic and clinical components of the curriculum. The asterisk denotes programs which offer only the prerequisites to clinical training and whose students must transfer to either another academic institution or a hospital professional school for clinical training. In most cases the students receive a degree from the institution at which they received the prerequisites; however, some students receive a degree from the institution which offers the clinical training. There are a few cases in which students receive degrees from both academic institutions. For the purpose of summary tabulations, the dual-program titles are counted only once.

Preprofessional Education Programs

This Directory does not include preprofessional education programs. An exception, however, is made for the baccalaureate programs in speech pathology and audiology. The American Speech and Hearing Association, national accrediting body for speech pathology and audiology programs, considers the master's degree as the basic professional degree in the field, recognizing baccalaureate programs as "preprofessional." The baccalaureate programs are included in the Directory because (a) several State departments of education recognize some professional competency at the baccalaureate level and permit graduates of baccalaureate programs to work as speech therapists in public schools, and (b) undergraduate training in speech pathology and audiology is considered necessary for pursuance of study at the master's degree level. They are listed in the Directory as "Speech Pathology/Audiology (Pre-Master's)."

"Technician" and "Technologist"

In this publication, "technician" denotes an individual who has completed two or more years of post-high school training and has received an associate degree or certificate after training; "technologist" denotes an individual who has completed at least four years of education beyond high school and who has received a baccalaureate or a post-baccalaureate certificate. Advanced education for technologists may lead to the master's or doctor's degrees.

Award Conferred

Six general symbols are used in the Directory to indicate the type of award conferred upon completion of the program:

Program Accreditation/Approval

Program accreditation/approval means recognition that a program meets the minimum standards established by a professional organization or association of national scope.

Several accreditation/approval organizations, including those for physical therapy assistants, occupational therapy assistants, and environmental health personnel, are not identified in this edition of the Directory.

Other symbols used are:

NONE—No accrediting body exists for that program, or the accrediting body for the program has not been identified for this edition of the Directory.
NO —Accreditation exists and has been identified for this Directory, but the program neither has nor is actively seeking accreditation.

Programs which do not offer the professional or technical training in the health field required for completion of the program, but which require students to transfer to other academic institutions or hospital schools for this portion of the training, are treated as though no accreditation exists for the program. As previously noted, these programs are identified with an asterisk in the Directory. Program accreditation as reported by the institution is indicated in the Directory as follows:

F = Full accreditation
P = Provisional accreditation
IP = Accreditation in process

Program Specialization

Specializations offered within programs were reported by respondents in accordance with the following definition:

> Specialization is an area of concentration within a program that develops a particular expertise and distinguishes one group of workers from others trained in the same program.

More specializations were reported by some respondents than could be included. In these cases the most common specializations offered with individual programs are listed.

Program Director

One program director is listed, although two or more were reported for a number of programs. The first name listed by the respondent was chosen for publication. If respondents listed the directors of both the academic and the clinical training portions of the program, the academic director is listed.

Organizational Location of Program

This is the academic unit in which the program is located.

Geographic Location of Program

If the program is not offered in the city where its director is located, the program address has been given under "Geographic Location of Program." If the address of the program director and program are the same as that of the institution, only the latter is shown.

Year Program First Accepted Students

This information is listed in the Directory whenever respondents provided either an exact or approximate date. A large number of program directors did not know the year in which the program first accepted students. In most of these cases the present directors were not at the institution when the program was initiated, and institutional records did not provide the information.

Beginning of Program (Entry Level)

This item applied to undergraduate programs only. Respondents were asked to indicate the academic year in which students were considered to have "entered the program." "First" indicates freshman year, "fourth," indicates senior year, "fifth" indicates a fifth prebaccalaureate year. Approximately two-thirds of the program directors indicated more than one year as possible entry levels because students could transfer into the program at various stages. All the years listed by a program director as entry levels are shown in the Directory. If a respondent indicated all of the first four years or all five years as possible entry levels the word "ANY" appears.

Present Enrollment

Respondents were asked to indicate the enrollment in each collegiate year of the program (freshman, sophomore, junior, senior, etc.) as of October 15, 1970. New programs which did not have students enrolled on that date are not included in the Directory. Established programs for which enrollment figures were not provided, however, are included.

Students enrolled in non-collegiate programs in a university setting have been listed as "freshmen." Part-time enrollment has not been noted in the Directory unless no full-time enrollment was reported.

Students Completing Program

Program directors were asked to list the number of students who graduated from the program in each of the academic years 1959-60 through 1969-70. Information reported for the years 1959-60 and 1960-61 is not included in the Directory because the data available on graduates for those years was insufficient to justify the space required for printing.

Projected Graduates

Respondents were asked to estimate the number of students who would graduate from the program for each academic year 1970-71 through 1975-76. Projections for 1975-76 are not included in the Directory because only a small number of respondents provided estimates of graduates in that year.

Duration of Program

Respondents were asked to indicate how many calendar months (following time of entry for undergraduate programs, or following matriculation for graduate programs) were generally necessary for a full-time student, entering without advanced standing in the program, to complete all program requirements. The estimates were to include summer vacations and other free time in blocks of one week or more. Any reasonable amount of time was accepted for publication.

Maximum Number of Graduates

Data provided in this category are estimates of the maximum number of students who could complete the program annually under the following conditions full enrollment, present curriculum, and current facilities and resources. Estimates were often not provided by respondents.

Inventory Notations

The following numerical notations are used in the Inventory.

01 Institution is closing.
02 Program is being phased out.
03 Students must be registered nurses to enter this program.
04 Figures given indicate part-time enrollment only; full-time enrollment figures are either not available or not applicable.
05 Enrollment figures for this program are not available.
06 Program is being reviewed; no students are enrolled this academic year
07 Figures include students in both the baccalaureate and certificate levels of this program.
08 Figures are included in those given for the baccalaureate level of this program.
09 Figures are included in those given for certificate level of this program.
10 Students in this program are working on their second baccalaureate degree.
11 Information is included in the figures given for this program by the University of Oregon Medical School, Corvallis.
12 Enrollment figures include students formally enrolled at Oregon State University, Corvallis.
13 Enrollment figures are include in those given for this program by the University of Oregon Dental School, Portland.
14 Figures is included in that given for the master's degree level of this program.
15 Figure represents the combined estimate for both the master's degree and doctoral degree levels of this program.
16 Program information represents a combined response from the Teaneck, Rutherford, and Madison Campuses.
17 Program information represents a combined response from the Baton Rouge, New Orleans, and Medical Center (New Orleans Campuses.
18 Information is included in that provided by George Washington University for its cytotechnology program. Gallaudet College students receive credit toward a degree from Gallaudet College after training at the George Washington University School of Cytotechnology.
19 Information represents combined figures for the George Washington and Gallaudet College programs.
20 This is a cooperative university. Students participate in work/study programs during the third (middle) year.
21 Figures are included in those given for the associate degree level of this program.
22 Figures include students in both the associate degree and certificate levels of this program.
23 Program designed for students entering with associate degree or certificate in dental hygiene.
24 Program designed for students entering with no previous training in dental hygiene.

"NOTA BENE"

As was previously noted, this Directory represents the first attempt t consolidate allied health educational program information at the senio college level. Diversification in the allied health field made it necessar to impose many constraints on the development of the Directory in order to keep the data manageable. The Directory does not conform t any previously established definition of allied health, but includes programs most often considered as part of the allied health field. Future editions of the Directory will update the present information. The Division of Allied Health Manpower and the Association of Schools of Allied Health Professions invite contributions to the Directory from those who use it. Comments should be addressed to:

1970 Full-time and Part-time Enrollments by Program Title and State.

The figures in this table indicate students enrolled as of October 15, 1970, for each program title in a given State, according to the students' academic standing (i.e., 1st—freshman; 2nd—sophomore; 3rd—junior; 4th—senior; 5th—1st master's year or 5th pre-baccalaureate year; 6th, 7th, 8th—graduate years). Students enrolled in non-collegiate programs in a university setting have been treated as freshmen. If any of the academic years are not listed under a program title, the years are either not applicable to that program's curriculum, or no programs within the State indicated enrollment for those years. The sum of the "Male" and "Female" columns does not always equal the "Total" column because many program directors were unable to provide a breakdown of enrollment statistics by male and female.

Graduates, 1959-70, and Projected Graduates, 1970-76, by Program Title and State.

This information represents total State graduates for given program titles for the years 1959-70, and projected graduates for these programs from 1970-76. National totals for each program listed at the end of the respective program section. Column 4, "Programs Not Yet Producing Graduates," lists, for each year, the number of programs which had students enrolled but which had not yet produced a first class of graduates.

Graduate Capacity for 1970-71, by Program Title and State.

The information on this table represents the maximum annual number of students who could complete a given type of program within each State if full enrollment were attained, utilizing presently available facilities and resources and with present curriculum and standards. A number of program directors did not provide maximum graduate estimates because their programs involved off-campus clinical training. Competition for off-campus clinical training spaces made a realistic judgment difficult. Program directors for whom clinical education was not a problem sometimes failed to respond for a variety of other reasons.

Anticipated Changes in Graduate Capacity, 1970-71, by Program Title and State.

This table represents the number of programs within a given State which are currently implementing or planning to implement a significant change in the maximum student capacity of the programs. Changes in program capacity are noted in terms of "Expansion" or "Curtailment."
